William

I don't have time to look today and see what version somehow got put in the new Teams folder for the PSLT manuscript, but what you have copied here is not correct. This is the version that was our working draft in April and the one I thought we were using for further revisions.

You will note that as I discussed with you just now, and as established for the SOT poster, Todd and I are sharing first authorship. I asked for Owen to move up to 2nd author instead of Ladics because Owen has done the bulk of simulations with me; quite a lot of work. Tala of course stays senior. From my perspective, no other change in authorship is warranted.

If you have contributions to add from the systematic review results, THIS is the version that should be edited. I can upload it later this week or perhaps you can? It's a very busy week on other priorities for me.

Thanks,
Annie
